

Workshop: Transforming your dissertation into a book
Sponsored by AHS and other SA regional groups

Sponsored by the several organizations devoted to the study of South Asia, this workshop aims to help a select number of recent PhDs re-vision their doctoral dissertations as books. Applications to participate are due by July 1, 2016. Participants must arrange their own transport and lodging to Madison, Wisconsin for the Annual Conference on South Asia in October. The workshop will begin at 7 pm Wednesday evening, Oct. 19, and all participants are expected to be present at this time. We will pay for snacks and for dinner on Thurs. Lunch on Thurs. is on your own.

For selection: Required is an email containing a current CV; the dissertation abstract, its table of contents, and its first chapter plus a draft book prospectus. Please submit your documents as a SINGLE PDF FILE to Professor Wadley by midnight, July 1, 2016 (wadleysusansnow@gmail.com).

Senior Faculty Participants: Susan S. Wadley (Anthropology, Syracuse), Convener and Geraldine Forbes (History, SUNY Oswego) and others tba. Our role is to read the materials prior to the meeting and be prepared to intervene and comment, "in the background" primarily with key interventions as needed.

Organization:

Wednesday evening:

7-9 Introductions plus discussion by one or two recent successful authors of the transformation process

Thursday morning is divided into half-hour segments for discussion of the projects. For each half-hour session, one participant will have been assigned to make a 5 minute presentation of someone else's project—preferably how that individual would revise the dissertation, and the key themes to be emphasized. During the remaining 25 minutes of that session, all of the other participants join in discussing the project -- except the project's author, who is not allowed to speak. The author of the project under discussion can only listen, take notes, even record, how their project is being understood, mis-understood, stretched, queried, and critiqued by knowledgeable peers with closely related interests, but working in varying theoretical perspectives, disciplines, time periods, etc.

On Thursday afternoon/evening, each participant is given a 35-40 minute time slot to respond to the more important queries, issues, and suggestions raised in the morning, and, most important, to seek feedback or further discussion of areas of their projects with which they recognize they are having difficulty.

Conversations can carry over into Friday and Saturday at the South Asia Conference!
