This highly original and timely collection brings together case studies from salient areas of the Himalayan region to explore the politics of language contact. Promoting a linguistically and historically grounded perspective, The Politics of Language Contact in the Himalaya offers nuanced insights into language and its relation to power in this geopolitically complex region. Edited by respected scholars in the field, the collection comprises five new research contributions by established and early-career researchers who have been significantly engaged in the Himalayan region. Grounded in a commitment to theoretically informed area studies, and covering Tibet (China), Assam (India), and Nepal, each case study is situated within contemporary debates in sociolinguistics, political science, and language policy and planning. Bridging disciplines and transcending nation-states, the volume offers a unique contribution to the study of language contact and its political implications.

Speaker Bio: Selma K. Sonntag is Professor Emerita of Politics at Humboldt State University in California. In her most recent position, she was Affiliate Professor of Political Science at the University of Colorado, Boulder from 2014-2019. Her research area is the politics of language, primarily in South Asia, but also in the United States, Europe and South Africa. She completed her undergraduate degree in 1978 in South Asia Regional Studies at the University of Washington, continuing at the same institution for her Ph.D. in Political Science. Her primary research area is the politics of language. Her numerous publications on language politics in South Asia have appeared in Language Policy, The Journal of Commonwealth and Comparative Politics, Nationalism and Ethnic Politics, among other journals, as well as in numerous edited volumes. She has received a Fulbright Senior Researcher Award for South Asia, and was a Fellow at the Jawaharlal Institute for Advanced Studies in New Delhi in 2012. She is the co-editor (with Mark Turin) of The Politics of Language Contact in the Himalaya and (with Linda Cardinal) of State Traditions and Language Regimes (MQUP, 2015). She recently completed her tenure as chair of the Research Committee on the Politics of Language of the International Political Science Association.